The Legend of The Lost Cajun

I have been asked a thousand times, “How did a Cajun end up in Summit County, Colorado?” And I’m always happy to answer.

The truth is that Belinda, my late wife, and I had dreamed of living here in the Rockies and opening a little Gumbo shop for years. For 15 years we owned and operated a fishing lodge in Louisiana – Griffin Fishing Lodge - then came Katrina, then Rita, then Ike and Gustav and on top of that, the big oil spill. What a mess! It was hard to leave but we had just had enough. The first little Gumbo shop opened in October of 2010 in a tiny building on Main Street in Frisco, Colorado and today people still love the down-home atmosphere and the authentic Cajun food that we serve.

In 2012, a friend and fishing buddy saw what Belinda and I had started and we decided to open one in Breckenridge, Co, the rest as people say is history! Over the years people from all over the country have tried and fallen in love with our food and I am proud to say that we are now franchising nationwide! It’s not just the food people love, it is our culture of courtesy and respect that we have created, along with some of the best service that you have ever experienced!

Our gumbos take 4 to 6 hours to cook, like all of our special dishes, red beans and rice, crawfish étouffée and lobster bisque, there are no short cuts, it’s got to be cooked slow, with a lot of care. Our seafood is like none that you have ever tasted and the Beignets are just like the ones you get in New Orleans – maybe just a wee bit better! Stop in and try some of our free samples and you’ll see what I’m talking about.

We now have restaurants in these great states: Colorado, Tennessee, Texas, South Carolina and North Carolina

Please visit TheLostCajun.com to find a location near you!

As we say in Louisiana, “make a pass” and say hello, feel the down-home atmosphere and “pass a good time”!

See y’all soon – Griff
