

Entrepreneur[®] MAGAZINE

THE NEW KIDS

Our ranking of the top 100 newest franchises.

By TRACY STAPP HEROLD

For many, buying a franchise means being part of an already sizeable system that's been around for decades. But it can also mean getting in on the ground floor of the next big thing and growing your business for decades. And now you've got more options than ever. Of the 1,023 companies that applied for Entrepreneur's 2018 Franchise 500 ranking, 225 have been franchising for five years or less (since 2013). We've gathered the top 100 of those new franchises on the following pages. They may be new to the scene, but these companies are already giving the big guys a run for their money with innovative models, marketing methods, and menus.

The Lost Cajun | No. 89

Cajun restaurants

FRANCHISING SINCE
2013

STARTUP COST
$207.6K - $614K

TOTAL UNITS
(Franchised/Co.-Owned)
11/2

